10: Schumacher--225 [10] T-1 (ca. 1896) 1898 Formosans
116, 135, 214, 823

In the north of Formosa, sulphur is cut in large blocks. In the center of the island (Kagee) considerable coal seams are found and the same is true of the northern region around Kelung. The Su-ao river carried gold dust together with rubble as it flows down from the mountains, but the Chinese do not attribute special importance to the gold of the stream. Their interest in camphor is much greater.